OBJECTIVES:

The course has three main objectives:

I) The first objective of the course is to increase student knowledge and understanding of the Turkish economy. A supplementary objective in this regard is to give students a development economics perspective. Students will also be encouraged to draw on material from other countries to gain a comparative perspective. To give students with different backgrounds a good start, there will at the beginning be a short reading time from four basic texts of the Turkish economy. These are:

d) Erinç Yeldan (2001), Küreselleşme Sürecinde Türkiye Ekonomisi Bölüşüm, Birikim ve Büyüme, İstanbul: İletişim

At the end of this reading period, students will take a ninety-minute examination on this reading material. The emphasis in the examination will be on testing student’s understanding of the linkages between different events as well as on testing their memory on specific developments. This examination will take place at 5.00 PM, on Wednesday, 22 March in Room F-107.

After this preliminary examination, there will be a total of eight sessions, seven of which on specific themes pertaining to the historical and current development of the Turkish economy. One session in the middle (time and place to be announced in due course) will be devoted to a general discussion and progress reports of students’ paper topics.

II) The second objective of the course is increasing students’ ability and skills in research and academic essay-writing. For this purpose, students are required to prepare a research paper on an approved subject of approximately 20 pages (approximately 6,000 words) long. Students will meet with the instructor on Wednesday 1 March on an individual basis to finalize their paper topics.

- The papers are expected to tackle an appropriate research question and have a sound analytical and empirical content. Papers are expected to comprise a brief critical literature review and empirical analysis for a selected country. Comparative analyses between, say Turkey and another country are encouraged. The papers will be presented to the whole group at the end of term.

- Students will be responsible for writing one session paper (approximately 6-7 pages) which briefly summarizes the material for the session in question, proposes discussion questions, and attempts to bring new perspectives to the literature covered in the session.
- Students are expected to prepare two critical paper reviews (about 4 pages long, each) on the material covered in one of the sessions, other than the ones for which they are session leaders. Paper reviews should be sent electronically to the whole group by the Monday evening preceding the relevant session. All written work should be submitted to the instructor (hard copy) by Monday evening (by 7.30 P.M) preceding the relevant session. Written work will be returned to students (with instructor comments) on the following Wednesday.

- The instructor will provide detailed information on the technique/art of writing research articles, paper reviews, and all other written work.

III) The third main objective of the course is to enhance student ability to make effective presentations and take an active part in class discussion. Students will present their session paper (approx. 15 minutes), their paper review (approx.15 minutes), and their research paper (approx. 25 minutes) to the whole group.

Students are required to read extensively for each session, make class presentations, and take an active part in class discussion. The main reading list for each session is provided below. It is essential that students attend all sessions on a regular basis.
